

PC-Donatie, the socially responsible solution for your old hardware

A socially responsible solution

Old hardware is worth money to us. The money raised is used by Viafrica for social ICT projects in schools in Africa. So far we have built and equipped computer labs and delivered training in over 150 schools.

A total solution

You can donate all your old hardware to PC-Donatie. We collect the hardware and determine its value. If the hardware is too old, we will recycle it responsibly. Valuable hardware is sold and the returns will go to Viafrica projects.

You can donate computers, servers, network and peripheral equipment, printers, telephones etc..

A safe solution

All data is destroyed on donated hardware. This can be done at your site or after collection by us. In all cases you will receive a report. Certified Blancco® software is used for data destruction.

Corporate Social Responsibility

PC-Donatie is a great way of giving substance and direction to your CSR policy. It goes without saying that we provide you with reports and images showing the positive contribution of your donation so you can use these for internal and external communication. On request, we will also acknowledge your generosity on the PC-Donatie website.

Who is PC-Donatie?

PC-Donatie is an initiative of Stichting Viafrica and SiSo. Viafrica has more than 10 years' experience in ICT projects in Africa. SiSo has been a specialist in ICT lifecycle solutions for some 20 years, both in the Netherlands and abroad.

Within PC-Donatie, SiSo and Viafrica together manage the entire chain: logistics, data destruction, reporting, use and management of ICT and solutions for e-waste in Africa.
